Oscar night in Boston

By Inside Track

Monday, February 26, 2007 - Updated: 08:51 AM EST

"Malcolm in the Middle" little bro Erik Per Sullivan, who just returned from school vacation week in Dublin, provided the only ray of star power at Boston's official Oscar Night America party at the State Room.

The Milford teen, who attended the viewing bash with his date, Lisa Auger, and dad, Fred, said he hadn't seen any of the nominated flicks, including the made-in-Mass. movie, "The Departed," which finally copped Best Picture honors after midnight.

"I watched a little of it with my parents, but then I remembered I had an essay due in the morning," laughed TV's Dewey, who skipped out of the State Room around 10 p.m. because it was, after all, a school night.

Other Boston boldfacers making the scene at the annual Ellie Fund benefit included Mass. Film Office cheese Nick Paleologos; car czar Ernie Boch, Jr. and wife, Kristen; local songbird Heather Schmid; NECN's sports stud Chris Collins and fiancée, Georgia Wright; WAAF [\[website\]](#)-FM's Greg Hill, Lyndon Byers and the purple-tressed Mistress Carrie; WCVB's David Brown and Susan Wornick, former Boston Bruin-turned-sports marketing man Cleon Daskalakis; Tresca's Harvey Wilk; Entercom biggie Julie Kahn; Springfield TV gal Jacqueline Cashman; real estate king Michael Carucci and wife, Darlene; and Mittcom main man Bruce Mittman and his bride, Ellen.
